This joint project of the Ljubljana Academy of Music and Ljubljana Academy of Theatre, Radio, Film and Television, in which even students of the institution of higher education training fine and applied artists also received important roles, features five 15-minute mini operas for the audience (and, naturally, a jury of professors). Music created today, modern librettos and modern topics in a performance by young artists just starting out on their professional adult careers. Given the nature of the project, their common artistic endeavours provide a snapshot not only of the exciting and innovative present-day of Slovenian culture, but at least as much of the current state of training in the arts.
